Badl Abdullah gives school supplies to students

We're going back to school for this Four in your corner Success Story.

A local firefighter with a heart of gold makes a special delivery to some school children in Fort Myers.

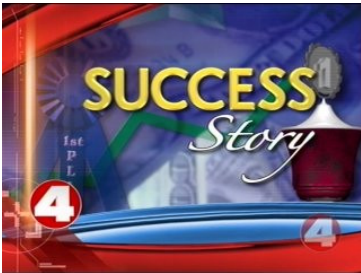

Bilal Abdullah dropped off Four hundred dollars worth of school supplies at Franklin Park elementary. Bilal is a Fort Myers Firefighter who also has his own sports clothing line called BADL which stands for "ball all day long." He donated some of the backpacks from his line to the school, and he paid for the rest of the supplies with money raised through a basketball shootout.

"i just love helping people," Abdullah says. "Anything i can do -- i'll do it. This is not really that hard...something simple."

He also donated Two hundred dollars raised from the basketball event to the Fallen Firefighters Fund.

Here's how to learn more about Badl's company and its role in the community.
